DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1-7, 9-14, 16-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

In claim 1, this claim recites a mathematical algorithm without limitation to a hardware device. The claimed “processors” are defined only by mathematical terms in the claims and in the specification. For example, the Retinex-type processor is a statistics “processor” or algorithm and a point operation “processor” or algorithm. In other words, an algorithm for performing the statistics and the point operation is a “processor” not embodied in a computer readable medium nor implemented as a specific circuitry for performing the functions as defined by the claim, therefore this claim is non-statutory.

Claims 2-7, 9-14 and 16-24 have this same problem.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by International Publication Number WO 02/089062 by Kimmel et al. ("Kimmel").

For claim 1, Kimmel discloses an apparatus for processing color images, comprising: an input processor, configured to receive an image is received (figure 2 input image S); a Retinex-type processor, comprising: a local statistics processor, comprising a cascaded recursive filter (iterative estimator 104), and a point operation processor correcting pixels of the input image according to corresponding pixel values in the local statistics processor (108); and an output processor (111) configured to transform the corrected pixels into an output signal that is indexed to represent an intensity of a particular position in the color image (pages 12-13).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed December 31, 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that the term processor as used in the claim is a physical electronic component. However, this definition is not found in the claim and there is no basis for reading this definition into the claim. Furthermore, this definition is not found in the specification. In fact, the only descriptions of the term processor found in the application as originally filed are descriptions of algorithms. See for example the description of figure 1a on page 8 of the application, which describes the input processor as a log module and the local statistics processor as an algorithm.

Applicant argues that an iterative estimator of the prior art is not a cascaded recursive filter. This is false because the estimator uses among other things the algorithm of figure 4 which uses an output as the input. With respect to the statistics processor, the prior art shows a summer 108 which adds numbers together which is a type of statistics that are processed to read on the claimed statistics processor.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
